The purpose of the game:

- Fill in as many cards as possible by writing the letters on their shadow.
- Learn to recognise capitals, practise writing them and learn new 3 to 6 letter words.

Preparation:

- Before you start, discuss how long you want to play for. If you want to complete 5 cards, for example, then you will be playing for approximately 15 minutes.
- Shuffle the writing cards and give both players an equal stack: whoever finds the card with the ape on it first can start!
- Collect the writing cards once again, shuffle them and make a stack with the pictures facing downwards. Do the same with the small letter cards. You can put the erasable marker on the table between the players.

Playing the game:

- Each player takes one writing card and puts it in front of him with the image facing upwards.

• The first player takes the topmost letter card and puts it on the table. He can use all the letters needed for his word and writes them down on the writing card.

- If there is a * instead of a letter, he can write a letter of their choice on the writing card!
- When the first player has written down all the letters he can use, the next player can use the remaining letters for his word. This means every letter can only be used once.
- Now it's the next player's turn to turn over a letter card and be the first to write down letters.
- As soon as someone has filled in every letter on their writing card, they can take a new one. Even during their, or another player's, turn.
- When every letter card has been used, turn over the stack and start again.

The winner:

Whoever has filled in the agreed upon number of writing cards first, is the winner!

Tip 1:

Younger players can decide to let every player use every letter on the letter cards. This way there is more chance of being able to fill in a letter.

Tip 2:

Don't forget to wipe the cards with a dry cloth after playing.
